

World Art Review

Discover Artists. Understand Art.

LOGO GUIDELINES

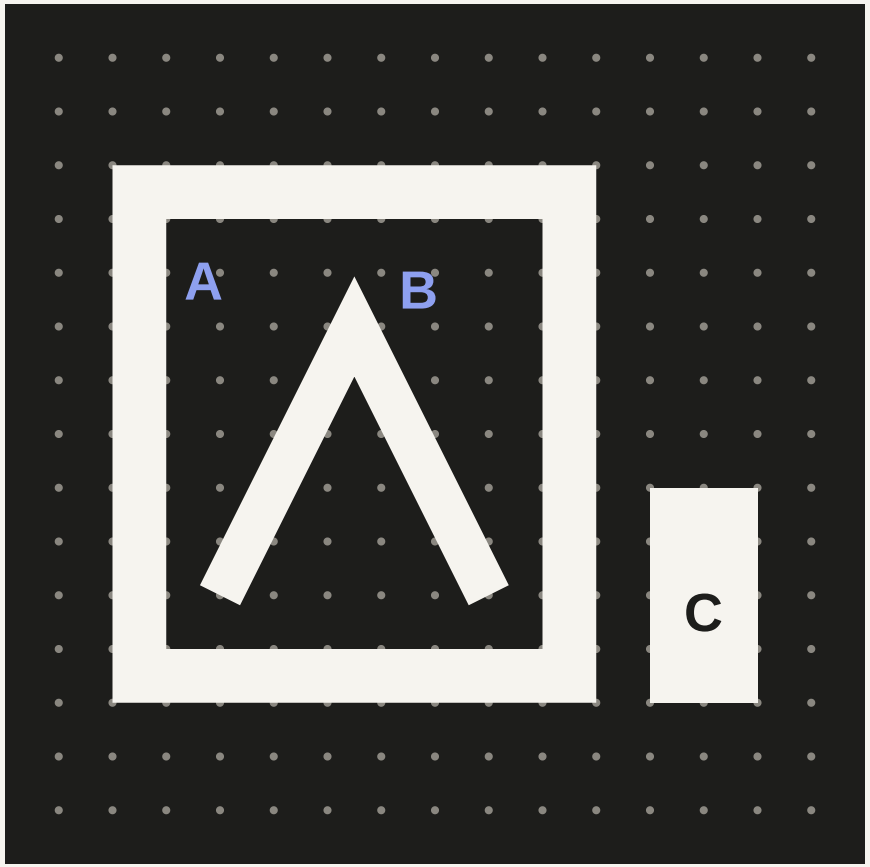

VERSION 2.0, NOVEMBER 2026

The work and its label

In a gallery, every artwork hangs with a small label beside it that says who made it and what it means. The frame is the artwork. The small block beside it is that label.

World Art Review is the label: the place readers come to discover artists and understand their work.

- u The tile is a square of 16 by 16 units. One unit is the thickness of the frame.
- A The frame: 9 units wide, 10 units tall, 1 unit thick.
- B The peak: a single mark of the artist's line, centred in the frame. It also reads as the A of Art.
- C The wall label: 2 by 4 units, 1 unit from the frame, sitting on the same baseline.

Clear space and minimum size

Keep the shaded area clear of text, images and edges. Its width, x, is a quarter of the tile (4 units). Here the tile is 120 px, so x is 30 px.

Mark on its own

16 px on screen, 6 mm in print

World Art Review

Horizontal lockup

130 px wide on screen, 32 mm in print

Below these sizes, use the mark on its own. Leave the tagline off below 260 px wide.

Logo versions

Primary

Cover pages, presentations and the website footer. The default choice.

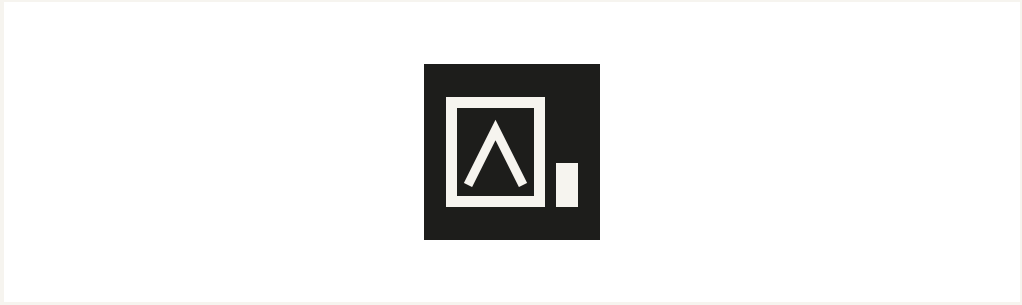

Horizontal without tagline

The website header, and wherever space is tight.

Stacked

Square and portrait spaces: posters, social graphics, print covers.

Mark only

Favicon, app icon, social avatar and watermark.

Colour

Charcoal

HEX #1D1D1B
RGB 29 29 27

The tile, the name and all body text. The main brand colour.

Off-white

HEX #F6F4EF
RGB 246 244 239

The frame, peak and label inside the tile, and page backgrounds.

Ultramarine

HEX #23379A
RGB 35 55 154

The accent: section labels, links and highlights. Once the most precious pigment in painting. Use it sparingly.

For print, ask your printer to match these values and approve a proof. Pantone and CMYK references should be confirmed on press, not converted on screen.

Colour versions

Charcoal tile
On off-white or white. Always the first choice.

Off-white tile
On charcoal, dark photographs and dark mode.

Ultramarine tile
For special editions and campaign graphics only.

No tile
Single colour, for stamps, embossing and one-colour print.

Typography

Newsreader Regular

World Art Review

The name, headlines and article titles. A serif made for reading news, which suits a review.

Newsreader Italic

Discover Artists. Understand Art.

The tagline, standfirsts, pull quotes and artwork titles.

Libre Franklin Medium

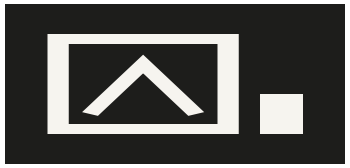

Labels, captions, navigation and buttons

Small supporting text. Use capitals with wide spacing for section labels.

On the website, every artwork is captioned with a wall label like this one, so the logo and the pages share one idea. Both type families are free from Google Fonts. This PDF shows substitute typefaces; the design canvas shows the real ones.

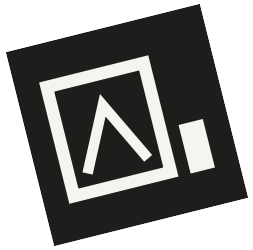

Please don't

Don't stretch or squash the logo. Always scale it in proportion.

Don't change the colours. Use only the versions on the previous page.

Don't rotate or tilt the mark.

Don't remove the label or move it. The frame and its label always appear together.

Don't add shadows, outlines or other effects.

Don't crowd it. Keep the clear space free.